1,000 NOTICES TO TAXPAYERS

Sent Out by Clearing Bureau for Home Seekers Established by Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce—In Effort to Solve Housing Problem—Want to Secure List of All Available Places to Rent.

The establishment of a clearing bureau for home seekers is the means adopted by the committees of the Norwich Board of Trade and the Norwich Chamber of Commerce which have been working jointly on some plan to solve the housing problem which has been brought upon the city by the anticipated coming of workmen for the Hopkins & Allen Arms Co.

The clearing bureau has been located in the rooms of the Board of Trade in the Thayer building on Franklin square with John J. Corkery in charge for the board and Mr. Corkery sent out 1,000 postal card notices to taxpayers in the city. The cards are signed by Robert W. Perkins, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, and by John J. Corkery, chairman of the Board of Trade committee, and have a reply card attached. They are self explanatory and are as follows:

Norwich, Conn., Sept. 22, 1915.
To the Taxpayers of the City of Norwich:

The undersigned committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade are making a systematic effort to "house" the mechanics and workmen, who will soon be brought to our city by the Hopkins & Allen Arms company.

With this end in view, we are making an appeal to every taxpayer to assist us. If you will fill out and return card at once, you will greatly assist us in our effort.

Any information you can give us outside of the matter indicated on the card will be appreciated.

Yours truly,
R. W. PERKINS,
J. J. CORKERY.

The reply card says:
I have a tenement to rent.
Location..... Street..... Number.....
Number of rooms.....
Improvements.....
Price $.....
Please state name of real estate broker if property is in the hands of one.
Sign here.....

The cards are returnable to J. J. Corkery, room 109, Thayer building.

By taking up the housing problem in time here the two local bodies are in a position to be of great assistance to the Hopkins & Allen company and from the time the houses are opened, which is planned for October 1st it is expected to have it open on certain hours of the day and evening so that the information it has on hand can be available. Mr. Corkery has studied out a plan for systematizing the information received and will without doubt be able to make the bureau of the fullest value to all who will be interested in it and whom it can serve.

The joint committee is working in cooperation with the real estate men of the city with the object of securing all possible information regarding houses, with and without board, tenants and apartments and to rent which can be furnished to any person coming to the city and needing accommodations here.

In some other places where a similar housing problem has arisen, the situation has been met by organizing building associations to erect houses when the supply for rent was exhausted. In Flint, Mich., where such a meeting was held $60,000 was subscribed at first and subsequently raised to $250,000. The feeling here in some quarters is that if such a demand for a building association arose, subscriptions would be raised without very much effort.

REPRODUCTIONS OF WORLD FAMOUS DIAMONDS

Placed on Exhibition at Store of John Ferguson on Main Street.

One of the finest collections of exact reproductions of the largest and most valuable diamonds in the world was placed on exhibition on Wednesday in one of the show windows of John Ferguson's jewelry store at 239 Main street. The collection which has been secured for a week from New York diamond cutting concern includes reproductions of some of the most noted stones in the world, one being valued as high as $100,000.

The collection is interesting, inasmuch as each stone is labeled and throughout the display were good sized crowns before the window.

Among the stones presented in the collection is the Kohinoor, a beautiful stone of 186 1/2 karats, presented to Queen Victoria in 1850 by the East India company. It is not of the finest water and the color is slightly greyish, but in spite of these blemishes it is valued at $100,000.

Another shown is the Hope, owned until recently by a London banker. It weighs 44 1/2 karats and was sold for $200,000.

Others include The Pigott, a 40 kt. stone, taken to England from India in 1775. It was sold to All Pasha of Constantinople by Prince Orloff, a Russian crown jewel, now in the possession of a Dutch millionaire. The stone is of the finest water and weighs 194 3/4 karats. It was bought in Amsterdam by Prince Orloff for $100,000 Dutch florins. The stone is owned at one time by E. Z. Dresden and at present in the Green vaults of Dresden. It has been the property of the Saxon crown since 1743.

This is the 49th annual encampment. A feature of the reunion for attending from Connecticut will be a gathering of members of the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery regiment at the site of Fort Richardson, which commands a sweeping view of Washington, overlooking the Green Valley, through which flows Long Branch. Remains of the old works are still visible.

The reunion will take place on Wednesday, September 27, and will be preceded by the parade of the Grand Army on Pennsylvania avenue, which will terminate at 1 o'clock at the site of the monument to George Carr Round, formerly of Company G, will be at the Hotel Harrington, the headquarters of the Connecticut men at the encampment. To give directions how to reach the training place. He is well known to Hartford Grand Army men. At 3 o'clock the reunion is to start at the Columbus country club's house, which is in the center of the old parade at the site of the fort.

The grand reunion is to be held on Thursday of next week to Manassas, out to the west in Virginia, for a dedication. A bronze tablet will be uncovered at the corner of Grant and Lee avenues "In commemoration of the Manassas National Jubilee of Peace, July 21, 1911." This is the first instance of human annals where contestants in a great battle met fifty years after and exchanged friendly greetings.

The Monumental Bronze company of Bridgeport made the tablet.

After the dedication the Connecticut party attending will visit the battlefield of the first and the second Bull Run.
